Mascot & Character Logo Design — Complete Works

Graded by concept, versatility, and production-readiness

About This Portfolio

DIR Studio specializes in mascot and character logo design, built around a bold black-silhouette style that reads clearly at any scale — from a business card to a storefront sign. This portfolio collects the studio's work to date, organized into four grades based on concept strength, versatility across applications, and how production-ready each mark is.

Each entry includes a suggested Best Used For — the industries and applications the mark is best suited to — along with a short Story describing the idea behind the design and how to read it. These are starting points, not fixed rules: every mark can be adapted, recolored, or simplified further for a specific client's needs.

First Grade — Signature work — strongest concept, cleanest execution, most versatile across applications.

Second Grade — Strong, on-brand character work — reliable, distinctive, production-ready.

Third Grade — Solid range pieces — good concepts that do their job well.

Fourth Grade — Early-stage or exploratory work — promising ideas that would benefit from a refinement pass.

First Grade

Signature work — strongest concept, cleanest execution, most versatile across applications.

OXXIE

BEST USED FOR · Cosmetics · Personal care · Fashion

Three interlocking figures resolve into a single continuous silhouette — a mark built around connection, femininity, and quiet elegance. Scales beautifully from packaging to a favicon.

Nick's Diner

BEST USED FOR · Diners · Cafes · Food trucks

The humble diner stool becomes the mark itself — legs, seat, and backrest read instantly as a seated guest. A nod to classic Americana that works equally well etched on glass or stitched on an apron.

Baroq

BEST USED FOR · Jewelry · Luxury cosmetics · Fragrance

An ornate, regal silhouette that carries genuine baroque presence without a single line of unnecessary detail. Built for brands that want weight and history behind the name.

Lorane Lyod

BEST USED FOR · Law firms · Financial services · Luxury retail

An interlocking monogram that reads as quiet authority. The kind of mark that belongs on a brass plaque as much as a business card.

Daspatch

BEST USED FOR · Logistics · Courier & delivery services

An ostrich in full stride doubles as the brand's initial letter — speed and reliability told in one continuous line. Reads cleanly at courier-van scale or app-icon scale.

D A M N S T E R

Damnster

BEST USED FOR · Nightlife · Streetwear · Late-night F&B;

A mischievous, stacked creature mark with real attitude. Built for brands that don't play it safe and want their logo to feel a little dangerous.

B U L M O M B

Bulmomb

BEST USED FOR · Gaming · Streetwear · Bold merchandise

A horned, armored silhouette stacked in confident bands. Reads as tough and territorial at any size — a natural for patches, hoodies, and team crests.

Vandoof

BEST USED FOR · Aviaries · Bird sanctuaries · Premium pet boutiques

A refined V paired with a bird mid-flight gives the mark real elegance. Suited to brands that want their pet-care identity to feel premium, not novelty.

DERMON

Derman

BEST USED FOR · Fantasy gaming · Streetwear · Tribal-inspired brands

An antlered creature rendered almost like a tribal glyph — aggressive, symmetrical, and instantly tattoo-ready.

ANGELO
H A I R C A R E

Angelo Hair Care

BEST USED FOR · Salons · Haircare product lines

Flowing hair becomes both the illustration and the logo — the mark doubles as product photography shorthand on packaging and signage alike.

Second Grade

Strong, on-brand character work — reliable, distinctive, production-ready.

Skeeties

BEST USED FOR · Pet grooming · Cat product lines

Rounded, huggable proportions built specifically for a friendly, approachable retail feel — the kind of mark customers want to pet.

Solmonk

BEST USED FOR · Meditation apps · Spiritual retreats

A masked, serene face with closed eyes — calm rendered as pure geometry. Suited to brands built around stillness and introspection.

Ba'Boy

BEST USED FOR · Nightlife · Menswear · Entertainment

A sharp-suited troublemaker with just the right amount of edge in the eyes. Works hard on merchandise where personality needs to carry the brand.

Zenin Club

BEST USED FOR · Wellness studios · Yoga & meditation brands

Layered rings built from a single continuous stroke suggest calm, focus, and centeredness — a mark that breathes.

Samurai

BEST USED FOR · Security services · Martial arts studios

A helmet silhouette paired with a steady, classical wordmark. Built for brands where trust and discipline need to come through at a glance.

Getycat

BEST USED FOR · Pet stores · Cat cafes · Veterinary brands

A stylized cat reduced to its simplest recognizable form — ears, eyes, tail — simple enough to hold up as a tiny app icon.

Odonata

BEST USED FOR · Nature & eco-conscious brands

A dragonfly caught mid-flight, rendered in sharp angular wings. Light, precise, and quietly scientific — good for brands built on nature credibility.

La'Mexicao

BEST USED FOR · Taquerias · Mexican street food

Sombrero and mustache reduced to pure shorthand — the cuisine is legible before the name is even read.

Merculm

BEST USED FOR · Pet tech · Premium pet products

A cat framed inside a circular motif that reads almost like a lens or a dial — precision and warmth in the same mark.

Detective

BEST USED FOR · Mystery-themed retail · Escape rooms

An owl-eyed sleuth built from looping, hand-drawn lines. A mark for brands that lean into intrigue and don't take themselves too seriously.

NIVEN

Niven

BEST USED FOR · Fashion houses · Luxury personal brands

A single wind-swept stroke that feels kinetic and couture at once — more gesture than illustration.

ARTPET

Artpet

BEST USED FOR · Pet portrait studios · Creative pet services

A painter-and-pet hybrid figure, palette in hand — a playful way to signal 'art meets animals' in a single mark.

Third Grade

Solid range pieces — good concepts that do their job well.

Goompa

BEST USED FOR · Children's brands · Toy lines

A horned, waving character built for instant kid-friendly recognition — big silhouette, big personality.

Baker'Z

BEST USED FOR · Bakeries · Patisseries

A minimal chef-hat-and-face icon that stays legible reduced to a single color on packaging or a shopfront awning.

Infinity Castle

BEST USED FOR · Specialty tea houses · Fantasy-themed cafes

An infinity symbol nested inside a castle-topped teacup — a small, clever pun that ties timelessness to taste.

Lotas Holidays

BEST USED FOR · Travel agencies · Resort brands

Layered mountain and flame shapes evoke adventure and warmth in equal measure — a classic travel-industry silhouette.

Mr'Caffine

BEST USED FOR · Coffee shops · Roasteries

A bearded, viking-adjacent barista mascot gives coffee branding a bold, characterful edge instead of the usual minimalist cup icon.

Max Protein

BEST USED FOR · Gyms · Supplement brands

Pure muscle silhouette, no ornamentation — the mark communicates strength before a single word is read.

Skunkie

BEST USED FOR · Novelty snack & beverage brands

A friendly, rounded skunk mascot — disarming rather than off-putting, built for playful packaging.

Sorcerer

BEST USED FOR · Fantasy gaming · Tarot & occult retail

A hooded figure with a glowing sigil at the chest — restrained enough for mystique without tipping into cliché.

Alans

BEST USED FOR · Rabbit-themed pet brands · Children's products

An endearing bunny face built to soften a brand's tone — good for anything that needs to feel gentle and approachable.

Yelien

BEST USED FOR · Novelty toy & snack brands

A tiny devil-creature with just enough mischief in its grin to be memorable without being unsettling.

Mescot

BEST USED FOR · Novelty apps · Emoji-style brand mascots

A wide-eyed, circular mascot reduced to essential shapes — built to animate cleanly if the brand ever moves into motion.

Makai Baby

BEST USED FOR · Toy lines · Novelty apparel

A soft-edged monster mark, built to feel approachable and kid-friendly despite the horns and fangs.

Tom's Wifi

BEST USED FOR · ISPs · Home tech services

A signal-tower T monogram — functional, literal, and easy to read at the small sizes tech branding usually lives at.

Clock Kingdom

BEST USED FOR · Watch & clock retailers

A whimsical creature perched atop the clock face turns simple timekeeping into a character worth remembering.

Bulon Gaming

BEST USED FOR · Esports teams · Gaming peripherals

A bull's-head mark paired with a defiant tagline — built for competitive, team-crest style branding.

Fourth Grade

Early-stage or exploratory work — promising ideas that would benefit from a refinement pass.

Joe's Circus

BEST USED FOR · Circus-themed venues · Kids' entertainment

A friendly ringmaster mascot with real charm — the concept is strong, though bringing it in line with the studio's black-silhouette style would tighten the overall portfolio.

Valora

BEST USED FOR · Wineries · Upscale bars

A minimal wine-glass icon paired with a refined script wordmark — clean and usable, if less distinctive than the studio's mascot-driven work.

Suchi Lady

BEST USED FOR · Sushi bars · Casual Japanese eateries

A playful geisha-inspired character carrying the sushi roll as her centerpiece — charming concept that could read cleaner with a simplified pass.

Comfy Mattress

BEST USED FOR · Mattress & bedding brands

A literal, friendly bed icon that communicates the product instantly — functional over distinctive.

Rox Holiday

BEST USED FOR · Youth travel · Adventure tourism

A quirky creature mascot with a playful tagline — a fun starting point that would benefit from a more resolved silhouette.

Chick PetCare

BEST USED FOR · Bird & small-pet care services

A soft chick mark that signals gentle, caring service — a workable concept that reads a little busy at small sizes.

Aron Water Taps

BEST USED FOR · Plumbing & hardware brands

A dripping-tap wordmark treatment, shown here across three exploratory variants — worth resolving down to a single direction before production use.

Untitled Silhouette

BEST USED FOR · Fashion boutiques · Personal styling brands

A minimal standing figure, elegant and adaptable — currently unnamed and would benefit from a defined wordmark to complete the identity.

blanco

Blanco

BEST USED FOR · Novelty apparel · Creature-themed brands

A wide-mouthed, expressive character with cartoon energy — fun on its own terms, though it sits apart from the studio's more restrained style.

WEEZARD

Weezard

BEST USED FOR · Spas · Skincare · Wellness brands

A serene figure mid-breath with a single droplet motif — a quiet, gestural mark that could carry more visual weight with refinement.

Dairycup

BEST USED FOR · Lingerie · Intimates · Boutique fashion

An abstract silhouette suggesting form without literal illustration — a bolder, more graphic treatment would sharpen its impact.
